

FULTON LEADERSHIP SOCIETY

Behavioral Questions

Behavioral questions are common to every interview. There are certain behavioral questions that you are almost guaranteed to be asked, such as “Why are you interested in our company?” and “Why are you interested in this specific role?”

Investment Banking

Investment Banking interviews typically consist of a mixture of behavioral and technical questions.

- Mergers & Inquisitions Guide

Consulting

Consulting interviews focus heavily on case studies, but will also include behavioral questions. Often, a first round will consist of two separate interviews—one case and one behavioral.

- Case in Point: Complete Case Interview Preparation
- Case Questions Interactive \(CQI\):
  - Login with BC email; password: (email us!)
- Vault Guides
  - Available through BC library
- Raffi Grinberg’s (BC Case Coach) case guide

**Note: Always ask the recruiter/info session manager what type of interview(s) you should be prepared for (case, behavioral) and if case, what types of cases you may see (business cases and market sizing cases are very different!)

Accounting

Accounting interviews consist mostly of behavioral questions, especially during the externship recruiting process.